

Managing Students with Computers

One to Several Computer Room Layouts

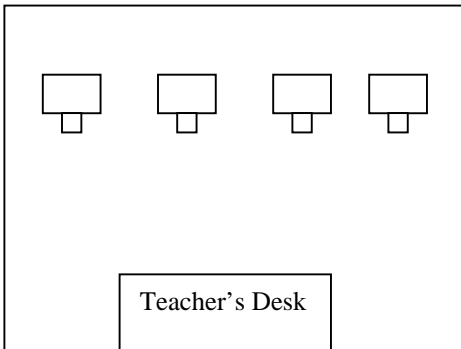

One Computer

In a one-computer classroom, the computer should be placed at the front of the room, which allows teachers to perform live demonstrations using an overhead or video projector or TV monitor (if available).

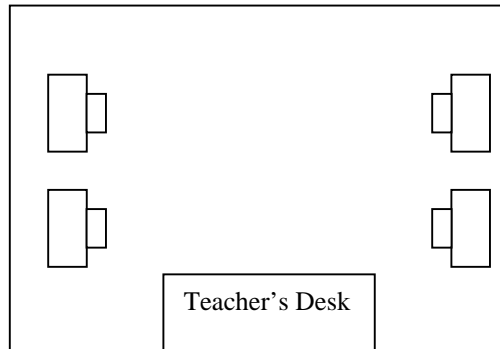

Several Computers

In the several-computer classroom, all computers should face toward the center of the room, never towards the walls, so that the teacher can monitor students' computer use. Here are several suggested room layouts:
